Message from the Resource Connector North Board of Directors

The pandemic has affected all of you and it has also caused Resource Connector North to change the way in which it operates. While we have been meeting exclusively through online media, we have still managed to achieve several important accomplishments.

Resource Connector North has engaged social media to connect with more of our members more often. We enhanced our website www.resourceconnector.ca and new members can now register online (<https://www.resourceconnector.ca/membership/become-a-member>). We increased our LinkedIn presence with a webpage (<https://www.linkedin.com/company/resource-connector-north/>) to promote RCN's activities and broadcast resource projects to our followers on LinkedIn, Facebook, Twitter, and engaged Brandcamp Consulting to enhance RCN's digital reach.

The Board created a new bursary at the University of Northern B.C. for engineering students and the recipient was Gavin Nanninga. This year's recipient from The Northern Lights College was Bradley Boring, and we have yet to be advised as to who were the recipients are from Coast Mountain College and College of New Caledonia.

At the November 2021 AGM, Resource Connector North Board welcomes a new Executive Greg Hanks, Chair; Pat McGuire, Vice Chair, and Jacques Fournier, Treasurer/ Secretary. The Executive is supported by Directors Cameron Braun, Fraser Deacon, Sydney Hall, and Sidney Roy. Regrettably, Leonard Legault left the Board to pursue personal pursuits. If you would like to join our Board, please get in touch with me via email at admin@resourceconnector.ca.

We are working with Del Communications to develop our 2022 RCN Membership Directory and Magazine. You can check out past issues of the Resource Connector North Directory and Magazine here: <https://www.resourceconnector.ca/resources/magazine>

Finally, we have so far postponed our in-person networking events due to COVID-19 and we plan to host in-person resource-based events in 2022.

We wish you the best for the rest of 2022 and look forward to connecting with you.

Greg Hanks

Message from the Premier of BC

Honourable John Horgan

A year has passed since the last issue of Resource Connector North, and it has certainly been a challenging one. While we continue to grapple with a global pandemic, vaccines offer hope for a more normal way of life and a strong recovery for our province.

Throughout the pandemic, we have been working to keep job sites open, while ensuring the health and safety of workers and local communities. The results are clear: more people are working today in B.C. than before the pandemic.

We have also faced a year of extreme weather unlike any other, from record-setting droughts, heat waves and forest fires, to floods and mudslides. Emergency measures were brought in to stabilize our supply chains, conserve fuel, and keep roads clear for essential workers.

While we will continue to feel the effects of these catastrophic losses for some time, I have no doubt we will recover what has been lost. We will build back B.C.'s damaged infrastructure stronger than before.

My confidence is based on the resiliency of British Columbians and our strong economic fundamentals.

We are strategically located as a gateway to the Asia-Pacific region and a major port to the rest of North America. Our backyard is filled with an abundance of natural resources, such as timber and minerals, and we have the clean energy and technology to bring these goods to market safely and responsibly.

By harnessing these strengths, we will build an inclusive, sustainable, and innovative economy that works for everyone in all regions of the province.

We are committed to responsible resource development that puts people, communities, and a cleaner future first. B.C. is already recognized as a global leader in the growing Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) movement, but we can, and must, do more.

Global demand for low-carbon goods and services will only continue to grow. In some cases, ESG-certified goods will garner a premium. We are committed to working with industry to ensure B.C. firms are positioned to take advantage of these opportunities.

Recent steps to modernize forest care in B.C. will ensure that local communities, First Nations, and smaller companies have more opportunity in the forest sector.

Consultations with Indigenous leaders, the Climate Solutions Council, and people from across B.C. have helped shape our new CleanBC Roadmap to 2030. As part of our plan, we will work with the oil and gas sector to develop an industrial climate framework that includes specific oil and gas sectoral targets for reducing emissions – making B.C. the first jurisdiction in Canada to do so.

If there is one certainty coming out of this year, it is that we are at our best when we work together. I look forward to continuing our work to build a more sustainable future, grounded by strong communities with good, family-supporting jobs.

Message from the Honourable Bruce Ralston

Minister of Energy, Mines, and Low Carbon Innovation-Resource Connector

There is no question that 2021 brought with it many challenges for British Columbians, from the ongoing global pandemic to forest fires and more recent flooding. Through it all, our government has remained committed to ensuring people and communities have the supports they need to build back better.

A large part of our economic recovery is linked to the strength of our province's natural resource sector. B.C. has a well-deserved reputation as a global leader in the growing Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) movement and our government is committed to building on this progress.

Here in B.C., we produce several of the minerals critical to delivering a low-carbon future. We are Canada's largest producer of copper, essential for electrification, and Canada's only producer of molybdenum. Moreover, we have the potential to produce nickel, cobalt, and other rare earth elements important for batteries, magnets, and the photovoltaic technology necessary to generate clean energy from expanded wind and solar projects. In the year ahead, I look forward to continued work with industry, First Nations, and local communities to grow our contribution to the world's critical minerals supply and ensure we all benefit from our province's resources, while safeguarding our environment.

Our government is also taking steps to ensure our decades-old oil and gas royalty system is modernized, aligned with our climate goals, and provides a fair return to British Columbians. For the first time in nearly 30 years, the public has had an opportunity to provide feedback on what a new royalty system should look like. This work will be completed this spring, putting us in a position to eliminate outdated fossil fuel subsidies and aligning the royalty system with our ambitious CleanBC climate action plan.

Our government continues to take steps to advance reconciliation and provide a clear path forward for future resource development in B.C. We're currently working to address cumulative impacts with the Blueberry River First Nation and other Treaty 8 First Nations. This work is long overdue and will help promote investor confidence and future partnerships between the province, local First Nations, and industry. Our government is committed to ensuring our natural resource sectors remain responsible and sustainable for decades to come.

In partnership with industry, I look forward to continued innovation aimed at creating new opportunities for workers, strengthening communities, and ensuring our resource sector is ready and able to meet global demands in the transition to a low-carbon future.

From power projects and mines to interprovincial pipeline projects, clients have relied on Triton since 1989 to ensure their projects are successful from inception through approval to completion. Triton has expertise and experience across numerous industries and sectors, specializing in providing support for power, oil and gas, mining, transportation and municipal development projects. With offices strategically located across British Columbia, Alberta, and our newest office now open in Saskatchewan, the Triton team is always ready to help clients with challenging projects.

 The advertisement for Gordon Russell features a large image of a red davit crane in the foreground on the right, with its arm extended. In the background, several other davit cranes are visible on an industrial site under a cloudy sky. The Gordon Russell logo is in the top left corner, and a "2 YEARS WARRANTY" badge is in the top right. The phone number "1.800.663.1310" is prominently displayed in large red digits. Below the phone number, the text "PORTABLE & STATIONARY DAVIT CRANES" is written in bold white letters, followed by "VARIETY OF BASES" and "INDUSTRY LEADING WARRANTY" in red. At the bottom, four small images show different crane bases: Pedestal, Flush Mount, Wall Mount, and Wheel Base, each with its name written below it.
